Now that we're settled in after a busy week over the holidays, our team is back at work on several new projects, some of which are in the pipeline, and some of which are already live. We're working on a variety of things, including:

- 6 May, 2016 – Staff are confirming to the Trust that they are happy with the final version of the September 2016 remit and so, it has been implemented. It includes a further three weeks of staff holiday before Parliament resumes.
- For those of you who are interested, below are the agreed details: Jan 15, 2016 – New Remit in place, starting on February 5, 2016, relating to schedule preps and House of Commons working hours.
- 15 January, 2016 – Schedule start date, at the earliest, is for a second draft of the September Schedule which is then introduced in September 2016.
- 1 January, 2016 – Staff are asked to start reviewing their new, and up-to-date, remit –
